NEWS and ITEMS: Very few people who read this column knew Bert Ferrell. He was a salesman for one of the major paper supply houses and for 41 years called on newspapers throughout the Dakotas and Minnesota. He retired just a little less than 4 years ago at the age of 86.

For years he drove a 1937 Plymouth in which the engine was replaced four times before he traded for a newer model shortly before quitting the road. He engaged in the printing and publishing business for many years before going on the road.

Ferrell was the envy of his competitors. Many times, when making his regular calls, seeing a publisher in distress for help, he would take off his coat, go to work thru the day or two and then be on his way. Needless to say, Ferrell's customers were untouchable no matter how efficient or what selling techniques the competing salesman would use.

Bert passed away Oct. 5th at the age of 90.

NEWS and VIEWS: ... The Rev. Charles L. Bryan, pastor of the Methodist Churches of Fairmount and LaMars, was perhaps, unusual in his profession in that he kept up the regular work of his calling in spite of the fact he was almost totally blind.

Rev. Bryan passed away last Saturday evening at the youthful age of 31. He had served LaMars since 1957. Previously he was pastor at Turtle Lake and McClusky. The young pastor preached his last sermon Thanksgiving morning at the Fairmount Church.

The high regard and respect for Rev. Bryan, in spite of his short residency in Fairmount, was attested by overflow of people of all denominations who attended his funeral there last Tuesday morning.

Although his vision had always been poor, it wasn't until three years ago that he was unable to do any reading in order to prepare his sermons. He had what his parishioners described as "side vision," and was able only to distinguish people and make his way around the community.

Rev. Bryan's official duties and activities in the church were all given from memory. Sermons, order of service, special prayers, funerals, baptisms and every event he had to rely upon his memory for the conduction and leadership in his congregations.

The guiding hand and helpmate in all of his activities was his wife, Mary, who read to him and into a tape recorder many times in order that he could prepare his sermons. She is also an instructor in the Fairmount School. One of the projects of the Youth Fellowship was reading to their pastor during their spare time as well as its members taking turns reading the scripture at the regular Sunday services.

The Bryans's have one child.....a Korean orphan adopted a few years ago. Parishioners of Fairmount and La Mars, as well as others in the Fairmount community, are much richer spiritually, because of one in their midst, gave so much to the community in spite of what seemed almost insurmountable odds.

Most applicable are the words of Him who sitteth as the Judge Supreme, "Well done thy good and faithful servant."
